A TRAIN DERAILED.

Three Soldiers and the Engineer Killed.

STRIKERS UNSPIKE THE RAILS

For a Distance of About 100 Feet and Cover Their Work With Sand.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 11.—Samuel B. Clark, engineer, Private Byrne, Private Lubberding and Private Clark. Such is the correct list of the killed in the derailment of the train two miles and a half below this city this afternoon.

The derailment of the train today has resulted in severe condemnation of the strikers. Many of their sympathizers have deserted them since the dastardly work of today, and openly declared that they will be against them in the future.

Shortly after 6 o'clock this morning the steamers Alameda and Acme, carrying regular troops, steamed up the river and landed at the Y street levee. They were met by several companies of militia, who had been ordered to keep the crowd back, fearing an attack by strikers and their sympathizers.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the regulars marched toward the depot, headed by Colonel Graham and staff. After them came the Hotchkiss and Gatling guns, guarded by a foot battery and marines. The cavalry was in the rear. As the troops marched up Second street there was a rush of spectators to the depot, but they were quickly dispersed. The strikers had abandoned the situation, and were nowhere to be seen. Sentries were at once detailed to keep the crowd at a safe distance from the depot. The Gatling guns were trained on the depot, and the sentries cleared a space in front of the depot of about 150 feet.

After a conference with Superintendent Fillmore, Colonel Graham ordered his officers to drive everyone out of the depot, including the newspaper reporters. Division Superintendent Wright then proceeded with the aid of a switch engine to clear the main track. After this had been done orders were issued to take the eastern overland, which has been delayed here since the organization of the strike, to San Francisco. Sam Clark, one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the company, took charge of the engine, and a man named Dan Kemp, a railroad employe, acted as fireman and Reynolds was conductor.

Acting under instructions from General Graham nineteen regulars of battery L, Fifth artillery, accompanied the train. As the train pulled out of the depot an ominous silence prevailed. The strikers were evidently not in a happy mood, and frequently hinted that the train would not reach San Francisco. Such proved to be the truth. Shortly after the train left the depot word was received here that it had been fired upon by the strikers and ditched, and that Engineer Clark had been killed by a bullet and several regulars perished in the wreck. Later advices show that not a shot was fired. The strikers had unspiked the rails for a distance of about 100 feet, and covered their dastardly work with sand. Engineer Clark, notwithstanding that he was on the alert for such tactics, plunged into the trap. The engine went over, bottom up, and landed in six feet of water. The next two cars were piled on top. Engineer Sam B. Clark, Private Clarke, Private Byrne and Private Lubberding all went under. Their bodies are still under the wreck in six feet of water. Private Dugan's arm was caught between the car and a beam of the trestle and cut clean off. Private Daumler was hurt in the head. Private Wilson had his leg lacerated. Private Ellis was internally hurt. Daumler and Dugan will die.

The wreck was caused by a rail having been taken up, the spikes pulled, the fish plates removed, and then the rail put back again in place.

Shortly after the report that the train had been derailed Division Superintendent Wright ordered a wrecking crew to the scene. General Graham also sent a company of cavalry to head off the perpetrators. Shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon the wounded men were brought to this city and immediately taken to the railroad hospital where their injuries were dressed. The regulars are in an ugly mood on account of the death and injury to their comrades, and seem anxious for a skirmish with the strikers. Many of them claim that General Superintendent Fillmore assured General Graham that the road had been carefully gone over and further declared that he knew that the strikers would not resort to any desperate measures to win the strike, and until he had assured General Graham of the supposed good condition of the road the latter declined to send an escort with the train to San Francisco.

Harry Knox, leader of the strikers, has issued the following: "I desire to state in behalf of the American Railway Union that this order had not the remotest connection with ditching the train between Sacramento and Davisville this afternoon, by which several persons lost their lives. We condemn this act as outrageous and barbarous, and entirely contrary to the spirit of the American Railway Union, which is engaged in an honorable struggle in the interest of labor, and is opposed to violence or sacrifice of human life. If this act were done by sympathizers, we regret it more, as it is calculated to injure rather than help us. We sincerely trust that this first act of violence will be the last."

Orders were given this evening to extend the guard lines to I street, fully a block from the depot. This is to prevent the strikers from getting near the company's property.

The city is virtually under martial law tonight, as Marshal Baldwin has issued a proclamation warning all persons not to interfere with the railroad and to refrain from joining unlawful assemblages. Sheriff O'Neill tonight arrested S. D. Worden on suspicion of being implicated in the derailment. Worden is well known in this city. He has been quite prominent in labor circles, and was recently sent as a delegate to the Chicago convention of railway men. The sheriff has also arrested A. G. Greenwald, William Burt and H. E. Bodner, alleged strikers, for alleged complicity in the wrecking of the train. They will be held pending an investigation.

Acting under instructions of General Graham, a detachment of soldiers tonight visited the headquarters of the strikers and seized a number of rifles and about 100 shotguns. No resistance was offered by the strikers.

This evening Colonel Barry, by order of General Sheehan, in command of the state troops, took a full company and raided and searched houses on J, Front and Second streets in the region of the depot where the strikers had their rendezvous, and captured 100 stands of arms, a large amount of ammunition, swords, etc. One place raided was over a bakery, long believed to be an anarchistic hole. The troops also broke up the women's relief restaurant of strikers, as a dangerous headquarters.

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—Officers have found the tools, which were hidden, with which the rail was removed from the track, and know who the parties are that hid them.

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—It is now asserted that one white man was shot by the militia in the river front skirmish. He was seen to drop from a tree. If so the strikers carried him off.

AFTER OLNEY.

The Knights of Labor Want Him Impeached.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—A memorial asking for the impeachment of Attorney General Olney has been prepared by the executive board of the Knights of Labor for presentation to congress. It will be circulated all over the country for signatures. The memorial declares that Richard Olney has been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, subjecting him to impeachment and removal from office. The alleged crimes consist in his advice to the President to introduce federal troops into Illinois and other states when they had not been asked for by the state authorities, and in fact against the earnest protest of certain governors. As a result of this advice "United States troops have fired upon and killed citizens of several states without lawful cause." Mr. Olney is charged with encouraging the Pullman Company in the stand it has taken against arbitration, in disregard of the sentiment expressed in the arbitration act of 1888.

AT CHICAGO.

PASSENGER TRAINS MOVING ON TIME.

Labor Leader Claim That One Million Men Will Go Out This Week.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The great railroad strike is practically at an end in Chicago. Trains on all roads are moving and passenger trains are almost without exception on time and freight traffic is rapidly becoming regular. The backbone of the strike is not only broken, said Manager Eagan of the general manager's association, but the backbone has entirely disappeared. The blockade has been raised, and it will require but a short time to get business back into its usual routine.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The ultimate effect of the appeal to the Knights of Labor throughout the country calling upon them to quit work and the order issued by the Federated Trades in Chicago to do likewise cannot yet be foreseen. All that is now known is that today not enough men quit work to make an appreciable difference in the situation. The labor leaders profess not to be discouraged, and claim that by the end of the week 1,000,000 men will strike. The meeting of the American Federation of Labor in this city tomorrow is looked forward to with interest, and its result will have a decided bearing on the outcome of the strike. President Gompers, it is known, does not favor a strike in sympathy with the American Railway Union. The labor leaders announced today that they were ready to go before the grand jury with proofs that the railway managers had conspired to delay mail trains as part of their fight against the American Railway Union, and would ask the grand jury to indict them. Judge Grosscup said the grand jury would undoubtedly investigate these charges.

MARSHALS KILLED

HAMMOND, Ill., July 11.—A report from Whiting states that two United States deputy marshals were killed this evening and a number wounded in a fight with rioters. Adjutant General Robins detailed three companies of the state militia to the scene, and one company to Roby.

Two companies of regulars have been sent from Chicago to reinforce the militia. The strikers at Whiting are determined and well armed. This morning they captured a cannon from the Standard Oil works which is used for firing oil stills, and it now stands ready for action. Numbers of rifles and 5000 rounds of ammunition have been supplied.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Cleveland's Courage and Patriotism Commended.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The strike question again agitated the senate today, although nothing like the fiery passion of yesterday's speeches on the subject marked today's proceedings. After an hour's debate, in which the firmness, patriotism and courage of the President was commended, Mr. Daniel's resolution briefly indorsing the President's action and pledging him the support and sympathy of the nation was adopted as a substitute for Senator Peffer's resolution. An amendment favoring arbitration was defeated—11 to 35.

Citizens Organize at Bakersfield.

BAKERSFIELD, July 11.—Company G, National Guards, received orders from General Diamond to muster at the armory at 6 o'clock this morning for active service. The company is still waiting orders. Fearing the company would be called away from here, fifty prominent business men, together with Hurlburt post, G. A. R., organized themselves into a company to protect all private and public property.

Attacked the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, July 11.—An attempt upon the life of the Prince of Wales was made today while he was driving with the princess en route to Penryn castle from Bangor by a man who uttered threats as he approached the carriage. Lord Penryn knocked the man down and he was arrested by spectators.

McDonald's Application Denied.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Superior Judge Murphy has denied the application of R. H. McDonald, Jr., charged by the grand jury with embezzlement in connection with the Pacific and People's Home banks, for a change of venue.

RAILROAD BLOCKADE

East Oakland Strikers Ditch Two Trains.

THE TROOPS AT SACRAMENTO

The Blockade Appears to Have Been Effectually Broken at Los Angeles.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—For over twenty-four hours the United States regulars have been in the field in Northern California, but the railroad blockade has not been broken. In fact the situation tonight is more serious than it has been at any time heretofore. Human lives have been sacrificed at Sacramento in a horror, which the strikers are accused of having perpetrated. All of the victims but one were soldiers. As a result the feelings of the strikers and soldiers in the field have been wrought upon until the men composing the contending forces are not only as determined as before, but ugly and desperate. It is clear that the strikers realize the folly of openly resisting the United States army, as they have resisted all the municipal and State authority.

From the dastardly tactics employed this afternoon at Sacramento against the regulars and the railroad company it is apparent, however, that the more barbarous and more deadly tactics of guerilla warfare are to be resorted to. Twice during the day were the troops ambushed. The first attack from under cover was early in the morning. At 6 o'clock Col. Graham landed at Sacramento with his force of over 600 regulars. No effort was made to resist their progress. The troops marched direct to the Southern Pacific depot and took possession of the buildings and railroad yards.

The few hundred people gathered at the depot dispersed when ordered to do so. At the wharves a detachment of the state militia had been left to guard the water front. The regular troops were no sooner out of sight than this little band of militiamen were fired upon with rifles by a force of some twenty-five men who were concealed in the bushes on the opposite side of the river. The militamen returned the fire, and about 200 shots were exchanged across the river before the attacking party fled. A Japanese boy who stood on the river bank was killed by a bullet from the militia.

None of the attacking party were apprehended. After this skirmish it was hoped hostilities had ended. Under cover of the United States troops the railroad officials went into the yards and resumed work unmolested.

At Oakland today the outlook was also warlike. An extra force of 150 special policemen and deputy sheriffs had been sworn in, and the railroad officials were making preparations early in the day to start trains simultaneously with those sent out from Sacramento.

The strikers resolved to "kill" the engines that had been fired up. Before the full force of deputies had arrived a band of strikers charged into the yards on the mole. They were repulsed. They waited for reinforcements from the Alameda mole. When more men arrived the strikers charged again and this time the deputies gave way. After all the engines that had been run out were killed the strikers withdrew. Then came the news of the disaster near Sacramento.

When Division Superintendent Wilder heard that the train had been wrecked he stopped further preparations. "We want to know where we stand," said he, "before we go ahead. If bushwhacking is now to prevail we do not propose to send our men out and jeopardize their lives. As yet no marines from Mare island have been landed at Oakland."

A train was also sent down the Sonoma valley branch from Calistoga this morning, but it was stopped at Vallejo, where the strikers killed the engine.

Tonight trains are running in Northern California only on the coast division. Neither in San Francisco nor at San Jose did the strikers cause any disturbance during the day.

At Los Angeles the blockade appears to have been effectually broken. After a slight disturbance at that point on Tuesday night the guard in the yards was increased. This morning the wrecked cars were cleared away and trains went out as usual. On the Santa Fe road all regular trains went out on time, a guard of troops occupying the overland.

On the Southern Pacific local trains were delayed in the morning until the wrecked cars in the yards could be got out of the way. The Southern Pacific's overland train from the east arrived in Los Angeles at 9 o'clock in the morning under a military guard. The eastern overland train, similarly guarded, was dispatched at noon.

A gang of strikers late this afternoon ditched two trains at East Oakland and completely blocked the tracks. They did this in order to prevent the San Jose trains from getting in. The feeling among railroad men over the outrage at Sacramento is intense. The engineers are more bitterly opposed to the American Railroad Union men than ever, while the strikers say the train wreck was one of the features of the war. No further developments in the strike situation at Oakland are expected to-night.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The United States authorities say the wires between Sacramento and San Francisco have been tapped and the instructions from Washington to the federal officials here given to the leaders of the strike. Hereafter all government messages by telegraph will be in cipher. It is expected that tomorrow Judge Morrow will instruct the federal grand jury favoring the indictment of O. C. Morgan, Alfred Urich and J. Duffy, now in jail on a charge of obstructing United States mails. Two light batteries of the Fifth artillery, under Major D. H. Kinzie, now under marching orders at the Presidio, expect to be summoned to Sacramento tomorrow. The combined batteries number 158 men. If called out they will take with them long range Hotchkiss guns.

The state board of trade estimates the loss to California fruit growers, owing to the blockade, at $50,000 a day.

Strike Ended in Arizona.

YUMA, Ariz., July 11.—The strike has ended here. All the railroad men have gone back to work, and all trains are moving east and west.

THE RIGHTS OF PROPERTY.

Small Holders Are Not Protected as Well as Large Ones.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—In the present emergency we are hearing a great deal about the rights of property, and quite right, too; but do we stop to consider how little the rights of small property holders are considered by the big corporations? While it is far more important that the property rights of the small man should be guarded than those of a corporation, for the reason that all he and his family have may be in a small piece, the law really guards them less, the small holder frequently losing half the value of his property by the action of the heads of corporations, either by pooling their interests to exclude competitors or bribing officers of the law. The former method is legal, while its antidote, the boycott, is illegal. Is that right?

Bribery and rioting are both illegal and both bad—it is hard to say which is worse; rioting, like an open sore, or bribery, like poison in the blood. The former may seem the worst just now, but the latter, with its insidious devilishment, lasts longer and is worst in the end, for its influence is more far reaching. It is a sort of epidemic in effect, permeating politics from the constable to the President like a pest. To cite an instance of its effect on the small property holder we will take a Fresno farmer, whose all may be in a farm or in farming implements. He figures on getting his product to market at certain reasonable rates, but when he tries to do so finds the freight tariff so very high as to be almost prohibitory, and that the Southern Pacific Company is discriminating against this portion of the state, its ability to do so being the outcome of a little manipulation among the heads of this and other corporations.

So, to regulate freight and other tariff and get justice, a commission is legally appointed by the state; but the commissioners are bought by the company, and thus the property rights of the farmer are seriously interfered with, through the constant shrinkage of value of his property, by the very company which is now putting the state to thousands of dollars' expense to save its sacred property, while the farmer has no recourse since the commissioners are corrupted. Under present laws we are compelled, in mere self-defense, to protect the property of the men who have depreciated the value of ours; so, is it to be wondered at that the Southern Pacific Company gets so little sympathy in Fresno? Of course the company will say that Fresno would amount to nothing were it not for the railroad, but then the people of the country gave more by far to them than they to us.

It is no wonder that some people seem to really believe that the dollar has a good claim to the title of almighty. It, in some hands, is as nearly so as the devil himself; it does its work so insidiously, so darkly, yet so respectably, getting into its power those who are without it to so great an extent that unlawful and riotous acts seem to the participants in such acts the only way to gain emancipation from its power. You and I may prefer the ballot box, and pray that the day may be hastened when they may see it as we do, but until they do we must expect such outbreaks as the present one. It is the natural product, under the law of cause and effect, of corruption and subversion of the law by capital. We, the people generally, the principal sufferers perhaps, are responsible. People who will re-elect to office such things (called men) as Railroad Commissioner Rea deserve just such suffering as they are having to bear now. The standard of public opinion has got to be raised before we have a very strong claim to patriotism, which is, in its essence, self-sacrificing. As it is, the cry is almost invariably, "Is there anything in it?" when one is called upon to do a public service.

W. G. URIDGE.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

George Hume Thrown From a Wagon and Severely Injured.

George Hume, a woodworker at Porteous' agricultural works, was driving home for his noon meal yesterday in one of the delivery wagons belonging to the shop. When he was several blocks from the shop the horse suddenly became unmanageable and dashed down the street at a terrific rate. The horse turned down Fresno street, and when opposite Stevens' feed yard turned in toward the entrance, but collided with the corner of the barn.

Mr. Hume was thrown violently to the ground, the wagon passing partially over him. The hind wheels rested on his body when it came to a stop. Mr Hume was picked up in an unconscious condition. He was severely bruised about the head. He received an ugly gash above the left eye and another beneath it. His nose and mouth were also badly bruised. The injured man was immediately conveyed to his home, where Dr. Pedlar attended him.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—A large representation of the citizens of West Park and a few from adjoining districts, met in the school house last evening and discussed at length the great issue that is now agitating the minds of the American people, namely, the struggle between organized labor and legalized monopoly. After a thorough discussion from different standpoints, the following resolution was introduced and adopted with enthusiasm:

Resolved, That we, a large number of the citizens of West Park and adjoining communities, in a public meeting held pursuant to call for the purpose of considering the strike, sympathize with organized labor in its effort to secure the just and humane settlement of the differences regarding the reduction of wages by arbitration.

And we further advise them to be orderly, as they have been in Fresno from the beginning, and thereby continue to gain the sympathy of the industrial classes of our nation.

W. P. Bowen, Secretary.

A Hay Ride.

Tuesday night about twenty-five persons went on a hay ride to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Adams on the West Side. Dancing, vocal and instrumental music were the principal features of the evening. At about 12 o'clock a delicious supper was served. After supper dancing was resumed. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Dring, Mrs. McNeal, Mrs. Kaiser, and Mr. Fred Burleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. Belk, Misses Aggie Rice, Alta Webb, Cassie Rice, Ethel Erwin, Sadie McNeal, Lillie Adams, Messrs. J. F. Hamilton, W. G. Hudson, C. Halstead, E. Webb, W. P. Kaiser, G. Rice, J. L. Kaiser, G. McNeal, W. McNeal.

BARGAINS IN LAND

20 acres, 10 miles northeast of Fresno, heavily sub-irrigated; 10 acres in bearing vineyard, bal. level for planting to orchard or alfalfa. Price $1,450; terms, $900 cash, bal. at 8 per cent interest.

40 acres 10½ miles northeast of Fresno; 30 acres in 3-year-old vineyard, 3 acres orchard, 1½ acres alfalfa, bal. graded for orchard; small house and barn, well, pump, etc. Price $3,400; terms, $2,200 cash, bal on term of years at 8 per cent interest.

40 acres ¾ mile from above; 35 acres in vineyard coming into bearing, 2 acres orchard, 3 acres alfalfa, all fenced; small house, good barn, well and pump. Price $3,200; terms, $2,000 cash, bal. same as above.

320 acres 12 miles northeast of Fresno; 69 acres in bearing vines, 5 acres assorted orchard, 5 acres alfalfa, bal. in grain or summer fallowed. Large 6-roomed house, $800 barn, windmill, tank, piping, etc., corrals, 1½ miles of fencing. With little additional fencing this property is admirably adapted to the production of raisins, fruits, alfalfa, hogs and grain. Price $12,000; as to terms, any reasonable cash proposition will be entertained.

None of the above described have any personal property included with them, it being a matter of foreclosure and compulsory sale in every case. It is all red land, free from alkali, and, judging from the growth of vegetation, from hardpan also; with Church water right, and in a healthful and growing district.

80 acres of prime alfalfa, fenced and cross-fenced, with well, pump, trough and shed; close to town; $110 per acre, terms easy.

A fine quarter section of white ash land near Kingsburg, half improved in bearing vineyard, orchard and alfalfa; small house, good barn, large shed, adobe house, windmill, etc, and $750 worth of personal property, such as trays, sweat boxes, horses, mower, rake and other implements. Price $10,500; terms, $4,500 cash, bal. on most favorable terms.

Large or small tracts of improved or unimproved lands can be shown or particulars of above described furnished by application to

MORE IMPORTANT THAN VICTORY OR DEFEAT.

Notwithstanding the evident impossibility of setting up the boycott as a permanent means of redressing wrong, public sentiment was overwhelmingly with organized labor from the beginning of its present struggle with organized capital until the original methods of the striking workmen were changed to open resistance of state and federal law in taking and holding unlawful possession of property and otherwise defying the mandates of constituted authority. From that time public sympathy has been drifting away from its natural place with the bone and sinew of the land, and every day which witnesses such events as those which have been occurring at Sacramento can only result in alienating the friends of organized labor and weakening the cause which it represents.

These are facts to be deplored, for the interests of the people of right belong to and should be with labor as against the selfishness, corruption and oppression of the corporations, but they are none the less facts which cannot be denied and must be given the consideration which their importance demands.

Whenever organized labor abandons legitimate grounds, and by its acts if not by its professions adopts lawlessness as its course of action, disaster to its cause inevitably follows. Public sympathy for it is strong and animosity to the corporations is intense, but beyond and above all this is fealty to law and order in the minds of the large majority.

Opposition to the establishment of law and order by whatever force that may be necessary will not stand the light of investigation and candid consideration. According to the principles of this contest as announced by the leader of the striking workmen no injustice to them can follow the establishment of perfect order. Their whole strength—and their only legitimate strength—lies in their ability, by the force of organization and moral suasion, to deprive the railroad of men with which to carry on their business. The presence of United States troops or any other legal power cannot prevent them from doing that. The government cannot compel men to work against their will. It may arrest the leader of the boycott for conspiracy to stop the mails, but it has no power to compel workmen to run the trains. Military or no military, the strike can be made successful if enough workmen can be induced to join it. If they cannot be induced to join it or fail to stay with it defeat is inevitable, for there can only be one result of a resort to violence and destruction.

The only hope of organized labor in this fight lies in a prompt submission to the laws of the country, for the moral effect, the effect which will find expression in the ballots cast by the people at future elections, is of far more importance to the cause of labor than is either triumph or defeat in the present contest.

The Populist brethren will never have a better opportunity to profitably observe their injunction to "keep in the middle of the road" than they have at present. The revolutionary sentiments expressed by a majority of their street corner orators is calculated to do no good, but may result in much harm at a time like this. When the mob spirit is once aroused it does not require much encouragement from the supposed loyal element among the people to commit excesses which can never be fully repaired or atoned.

The Tulare Register wants the Pullman porters to strike for a salary instead of tips. If they will do so there will be no question about the result. Everybody will join in boycotting Pullman on that proposition.

REASON MUST PREVAIL.

There has been a great deal said about the danger to a free government from such hot-beds of anarchy as exists in Chicago and other American cities, but in view of the fact that in every town, hamlet and city in this country today can be heard the common expression of approval of the use of dynamite for the destruction of life and property, it must be apparent to all people who are accustomed to think seriously, that there is much less real danger in the hot-beds of anarchy than there is in the prevalence of anarchistic sentiment among people who would hotly resent any imputation against their good citizenship.

The time has come when all people who are not actual followers of the red flag and believers in the supremacy of the bomb and the torch, should ponder deeply on the possible and probable results of things which they are now dispensing with the recklessness of passion and prejudice.

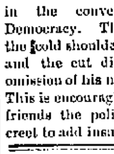

Although such a consummation is far beyond the range of probability, let it be supposed that lawless violence should triumph to the extent of overthrowing the present unsatisfactory administration of the affairs of government. What then? That is the question for every citizen to ask himself before he gives his influence to the policy of destruction. The work of reconstruction must come back to the people, and what assurance is there that they would do better than they do when their will is recorded at the ballot box under existing conditions? They would have the same powers of evil and the same corrupt methods to contend with, and the prospect of any improvement over what can be accomplished by peaceful and patriotic means is so remote that it fails to commend itself to any well-balanced mind.

The destiny of this government must be fought out by the means provided in the constitution, and necessary reforms must be effected by newly awakened sentiments of patriotism and honest devotion to free institutions. The counsellors of violence are discouragingly numerous at present, but better judgment must soon prevail, and the work of building anew upon the foundation laid by the patriot fathers must be earnestly carried forward, not by frothy demagogues and vicious advocates of lawlessness, but by that better and more numerous element of American citizenship which retains its virtue and its reason amid the most trying conditions.

The well-fed boys at Grover's pie counter failed to get to the front in the convention of the local Democracy. The man of destiny got the cold shoulder from start to finish, and the cut direct in the deliberate omission of his name from the platform. This is encouraging. It shows that our friends the political enemy are too discreet to add insult to injury.

PRICKLY ASH, POKE ROOT AND POTASSIUM
Makes Marvelous Cures in Blood Poison Rheumatism and Scrofula

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels diseases, giving the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For primary, secondary and tertiary syphilis, for blood poisoning, mercurial poison, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and makes positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

Ladies whose systems are poisoned and whose blood is in an impure condition, due to menstrual irregularities, are peculiarly benefited by the wonderful tonic and blood cleansing properties of P. P. P.—Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 14th, 1893.—I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was affected with heart disease, pleurisy and rheumatism for 35 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can cheerfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.
MRS. M. M. YEARY.

Aberdeen, O., July 21, 1891.
Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.: Dear Sirs—I bought a bottle of your P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Ark., and it has done me more good than three months' treatment at the Hot Springs. Send three bottles C. O. D.
Respectfully yours,
JAS. M. NEWTON,
Aberdeen, Brown County, O.

Capt. J. D. Johnston.
To all whom it may concern: I hereby testify to the wonderful properties of P. P. P. for eruptions of the skin. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. I tried every known remedy but in vain, until P. P. P. was used, and am now entirely cured.

Skin Cancer Cured.
Testimony from the Mayor of Sequin, Tex.
Sequin, Tex., January 14, 1893.
Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief: it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,

OUR GREAT PATTERN OFFER

Cut Paper Patterns FREE to Every Reader of the Republican.

We have made arrangements by which we are offering free, to the readers of The Republican, the Demorest Cut Paper Patterns, which are worth from 20 cents to 50 cents each, thus making every copy of this paper worth from 20 cents to 50 cents. Cut out the coupon below and mail according to directions on it, and you will receive by return mail the pattern in the size chosen.

Enclose two 2-cent stamps for each pattern chosen to pay for mailing, handling, etc. Without the coupon the pattern would cost you from 20 to 50 cents.

SAVE THIS ILLUSTRATION AND DESCRIPTION TO COMPARE WITH THE PATTERN WHEN YOU RECEIVE IT.

SERVICEABLE AND STYLISH.

586—FENWICK COAT. Sizes, 34, 36, 38 and 40 Inches Bust Measure.

Although very plain in effect as illustrated, this model is most practical for traveling, seaside and general wear. It is formed by the combination of the "Fenwick" coat and the "Gilbert" skirt, and embodies some of the most stylish features of the present day—the full gored skirt, and the newest style of blazer, which is tight fitting in the back and rounding away in front, disclosing a shirt waist. A waistcoat, basque or blouse waist can be substituted for the shirt waist. Covert cloth, homespun, tweed and serges are the popular materials for general wear, but for summer use, costumes of linen or cotton duck or canvass are exceedingly stylish and cool. Rows of stitching are used to finish the sleeves, collar and edges of the coat.

A special illustration and full directions about the pattern will be found on the envelope in which it is enclosed.

508—Gilbert Skirt. Sizes, medium and Large.

For any dress goods, light, medium or heavy in weight, this is an excellent model; graceful, of becoming fullness, and of equal length all around. It has gored fronts and side breadths, and a bias seam down the middle of the back, and the shape at the top makes it especially easy to fit. Line throughout, and put an interlining of not too stiff crinoline to any desired depth, between the lining and the outside. Finished with rows of stitching, it combines well with any of the tailor-made basques or coats.

A special illustration and full directions about the pattern will be found on the envelope in which it is enclosed.

Republican Coupon Pattern Order,

Entitling the holder to One Demorest Pattern

Fill in below the number and size of the pattern you desire, and mail this coupon to Demorest's, 15 East 14th Street, New York, with four cents in stamps or pennies, to pay for mailing, handling, etc. Be sure to give your name and full address, and choose one of the sizes that is printed with each design.

NEARING THE END.

More Expert Testimony Taken Yesterday.

THE DEFENSE ABOUT TO CLOSE

Mrs. Sanders Testifies.

Almost the entire day yesterday in the Sanders' forgery trial was taken up by the defense with expert testimony. Every expert put on the stand declared the signature on the $1,400 draft genuine. All the letters signed by Wootton and dated later than February 1st were likewise pronounced to be in the genuine handwriting of William Wootton. The figure 4, however, which occurs twice on the draft in question, was particularly dwelt upon by the prosecution, for in not one of all the other checks could the figure be found made exactly in the same way.

Much time was taken up by each expert as his opinion would be asked for upon every exhibit, and the number of exhibits is not small.

Before Dr. McIntosh left the stand yesterday he was instructed by the court to examine both the people's and defendant's exhibits to see if he could find the word hundred written in the same manner as it was on the alleged forged draft. Particular attention was called to the peculiar style of the two "d's." When Dr. McIntosh resumed his testimony yesterday morning he testified that he had found the word in some of the other exhibits, but did not find both "d's" made the same as on the draft. During the cross-examination he was closely questioned about the meeting in Fahey's hotel with the two witnesses from Barstow.

Stanton Abbott was recalled to testify to the single fact that when he met Sanders on the road near William Yates' house the Professor did the writing in taking the acknowledgment to a deed with pen and ink.

N. W. Moodey was called and was at first questioned as to his ability as an expert on handwriting. He stated that he had been postmaster at Fresno for eight years, and in that capacity it was a necessity to study handwriting by comparison. He was held responsible, he said, for all moneys paid out on money orders. Hence he always made a careful examination and comparison of the signature on the order with that on the advice received from the office issuing the order.

The witness was handed the $1400 draft, which he said he had compared with Wootton's genuine signature and said it was his opinion that the signature was genuine. He was closely questioned on the comparison of the letters in the signatures on the letters and checks and declared that the signatures on all the letters he examined dated since February 1st were genuine.

After a ten-minute recess O. T. Redfield of Madera was put on the stand as an expert. He said that after careful examination it was his opinion that the signatures to the draft and also the alleged forged signatures to the letters were in the genuine handwriting of William Wootton. He pointed out a number of characteristics in Wootton's style not hitherto found. In the cross-examination it was brought out that the figure "4" as made in the draft was different from the "4s" found on the canceled checks from the Visalia bank, which were admitted to be genuine. At the conclusion of his testimony an adjournment was taken until 1:45 o'clock.

Upon reconvening J. S. Eastwood, a civil engineer, took the stand, and when handed the draft in dispute he gave it as his opinion that both the body and signature were in the handwriting of William Wootton. He said he had carefully examined all of Wootton's signatures and compared them with those admitted to be genuine, and found a characteristic individuality running through all the writing. Under the cross-examination of Mr. Snow the peculiar figure "4" on the draft, which was not to be found in any other check or draft, was dwelt upon at considerable length. Wootton always wrote his "4's" without taking his pen from the paper, never using two strokes.

The witness was at last forced to admit that the general indication was that Wootton did not make the figures. He also admitted that the letters in the signature to the draft were all connected, while in the other signature this was not to be found.

O. T. Redfield was recalled to the stand, and was asked to pass upon another signature that had been overlooked when he was on the stand before. He pronounced the signature genuine. The prosecution then asked him to look over all the signatures and to pick out any that were not genuine. After looking them over he said he could find none.

The monotony of expert testimony was somewhat broken when the defense put Mrs. Sanders on the stand. She was only questioned, however, about her husband's appearance about the 1st of February in regard to the style in which he wore his beard. She said that the present style was the customary way he had been wearing his beard. He never allowed it to grow lower than to about his collar. Asked to fix the date when he trimmed his beard in the early part of February, she stated her inability to do so on account of the confused state of mind she had been in since the trade.

Stanton B. Abbott was recalled and asked about a conversation that took place in Reedley, when he told different parties that he had given Professor Sanders permission to use his name in a deed. This conversation the witness emphatically denied.

D. L. McCray was also recalled and questioned as to the conversation he had with Deputy Sheriff Peck and Detective Lawson concerning John Knaugh.

Here Mr. Short informed the court that the defense had about completed its case, with the exception of one or two witnesses, who will be present in the morning. One of them is J. B. Stetson of San Francisco, who is said be a very important witness for the defense. Mr. Short added that they had not yet fully determined whether they would put the defendant on the stand. So in all probability the evidence for the defense will be all in today, after which the arguments will be began.

Remember the Poor.

An entertainment will be given for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum of Fresno, at DeWitt hall I street, between Mariposa and Fresno, Thursday, July 12. Adults 25c, Children 10c. Commencing 8:30 p.m. Come one, come all. * E. HUGHES & Co.

THE FARMER'S SIDE.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—In your issue of the 4th inst a communication appeared headed "The Strikers' Side." Will you allow a rancher a little space in which to give what, in his humble opinion, is the people's side? And please allow me to profess what I will say with the assertion that in every instance in my whole life my sympathies have been with the "under dog in the fight." Labor is so honorable and manly that it should demand the respect of every intelligent and honest person. I desire to say further that for railroads generally, and the Southern Pacific in particular, and their peculiar methods, I have not one single atom of respect. I believe that no state was ever cursed with such a cormorant gang as the Southern Pacific railroad.

Now, I don't think, as one of the people, that this is a fight between labor and the Southern Pacific railroad. In a manifesto issued by the state organization of the A. R. U. at Sacramento to the people in general and the Southern Pacific railroad in particular, a few days ago, the strikers say: "We have no grievance against the Southern Pacific company." Then, as one of the people, what am I to infer? Against whom is the grievance? Against the honest man, who by thrift and industry acquires property, and then is to be told that he has no right to control or manage it? Or is it because one rancher is more thrifty, more provident or more economical than his neighbor, and has been able to buy a carriage, while his neighbor only has a two-horse wagon? Should the laborers on the ranch of the wagon owner go to his neighbor and with threats and intimidations say, "You must not hook up your carriage; you must ride in your wagon; your carriage was built by the Columbus buggy company, and they won't pay their men the wages asked for, so you must take a wagon and cannot ride in your carriage until they agree to pay their hands what they ask. Wagons were used before the Columbus buggy company built fine carriages, and is good enough for me." Or is it a combine between the Southern Pacific Railroad and its men to complete the ruin and bankruptcy of the California producer? Strike sympathizers say it is a combine between Huntington and Pullman to crush labor. Isn't the other proposition just as plausible? Who is suffering the most? Are not the people holding the sack? Are not orchards valueless? Is it not a fact that upwards of 200 cars of green fruit is rotting on the side track? And why? We are told because of a principle. What principle is involved? The strikers on the Southern Pacific have no grievance against the road. We are then to infer that they are satisfied with their pay, their employers, etc., etc. Then what is the principle?

No one knows better than the railroad employes what California ranchmen have been getting for their products; they also know that the prospect to pay the interest on their mortgages this year were so good that they congratulated themselves on their ability to keep their families together, and out of the poor house another year. Then this gigantic monopoly, greater by far than the Standard Oil Company, which has been organized with a battle cry of "Down with monopolies," posing as the great friend of labor, as the especial champion of the downtrodden and oppressed, when asked by the poor crushed fruit ranchers of California to raise the embargo on fruit cars, met their request with a flat refusal. The people, who in furtherance of their business interests, or who were traveling on life or death missions, took advantage of a train leaving San Francisco south, were abused and vilified by these "great friends of the people," the strikers. And still they demand the sympathy of the public.

Now, after this strike is over, and the strikers have destroyed a couple of million dollars of the railroad company's property, and the company should say we must reduce your wages 20 per cent to make good our losses for property destroyed by you, will the American Railway Union ask for the sympathy of the people? The judgment of a court of equity is that you shall restore the property damaged; and as the strikers are both the judge and jury in their case, they must concede the same right to their adversary. It is an unfortunate affair—unfortunate in the fact that it compels the people of California to sympathize with their natural enemy, the railroad company. RANCHER.

S. C. Hutchings' Funeral.

The funeral of Sam C. Hutchings, who died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, will take place tomorrow morning from Stephens & Bean's undertaking establishment at 9:30 o'clock. Word has been received from Idaho from the children of the deceased to embalm the body and keep it in a hermetically sealed casket till the railroad tie-up is over.

Then and Now.

The "well descended" Boston remonstrants may claim an ally in Governor John Winthrop, 2½ centuries ago. And the prophetic utterance of Representative Hayes of Lowell, who called for new lunatic asylums in case the municipal woman suffrage bill should become a law, finds historic justification. The following quotation is from "Winthrop's History of New England" and is dated 1645:

"Mr. Hopkins, the governor of Hartford, upon Connecticut, came to Boston and brought his wife with him, who was fallen into a sad infirmity—the loss of her understanding and reason—which had been growing upon her divers years by occasion of her giving herself wholly to reading and writing and had written many books. Her husband, being very loving and tender of her, was loath to grieve her, but he saw his error when it was too late, for if she attended her household affairs and such things as belong to women and not gone out of her way and calling to meddle in such things as are proper for men, whose minds are stronger, etc., she had kept her wits and might have improved them usefully and honorably in the place God had set her."—Boston Woman's Journal.

She Makes Things Hum.

Mrs. Eva M. Blackman of Leavenworth, Kan., who is the first woman police commissioner on record, in the language of the Grasshopper State, "makes things hum!" The papers have been full of tales about her prowess in cutting off official heads, firing old bachelors from the force, installing her friends in office, making the police force doff their hats to her and driving a variety troop out of town. She also inaugurated a code of whistle signals by which the force is put in constant communication. Formerly an officer could never be found when wanted; but, thanks to Mrs. Blackman, a schedule is now in effect by which the whereabouts of every man is known at all times. She has succeeded in getting separate quarters for women prisoners, has secured sanitary arrangements undreamed of before and has had the jail cleaned and cleared of vermin. Mrs. Blackman is 27 years old, small of stature and believes that comfort and not style should be paramount in dress. She owns and edits a small Populist paper, on which she does a great deal of the work. Her 4-year-old boy, who is said to measure over a foot for every year, is her constant companion.

"Suffrage Woman's Right."

If the ballot belongs by right to every woman, nothing more remains to be said. Let justice be done, though the heavens fall. That other women do not wish to vote, or that men are unwilling that women should vote, or that woman suffrage will imperil the refinement and delicacy of womanhood, or will threaten the peace of families, or that giving suffrage to women will add to the complications which giving suffrage to all men has produced and will swell the ignorant and the superstitious, if not the immoral and purchasable vote, are considerations wholly immaterial, if woman has a right to the ballot, for it can never be just to refuse, from motives of expediency, to do justice. Rather let us say that justice is always expedient. To put the case correctly, if Miss Anthony has a right to the ballot, the rest of the people of the state of New York have no right to refuse it to her.—Outlook.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

WORDS OF PRAISE.

I have been wearing glasses from boyhood, have consulted the best oculists in New York, New Orleans and other cities, and never before have I derived such comfort as I experienced through the use of glasses fitted for me by Drs. DeZeng and Shelmerdine. It is the first time in my life that the defect in my vision appears to have been so perfectly and satisfactorily corrected.
JOHN REICHMAN,
Cashier Farmers' Bank.

I am wearing glasses fitted for both far and near sight by Drs. De Zeng and Shelmerdine, and they are the best I ever had. THOMAS E. HUGHES.

My glasses fitted by Drs. De Zeng and Shelmerdine are very clear, perfect and entirely satisfactory. J. W. REESE.

Until glasses were fitted to my eyes by Drs. De Zeng and Shelmerdine, I did not realize how greatly my sight could be improved. I now see as clearly as I did when a boy. C. G. SAYLE.

Drs. DeZeng and Shelmerdine are located with Drs. Deardorff & Davidson where they will remain until July 15th.

JOHN NOON IS BOSS

His Solid "42" Dictate Nominations.

THE CONVENTION LED BLINDFOLD

How Mordecai Was Nominated and Grady and Prince Defeated.

Knives Unsheathed.

The following nominations have been made on the Democratic ticket to date: Superior court judges, Milo K. Harris and George B. Graham; sheriff, George W. Smith; district attorney, George L. Warlow; county clerk, A. J. Elmore; treasurer, Thomas P. Nelson; assessor, E. D. Vogelsang; recorder, J. B. Rader; state senator, G. W. Mordecai of Madera; assemblyman, Sixty-second district, C. U. Henderson of Kingston; Sixty-third district, N. L. F. Bachman of Easterby.

It did not take the old stagers in the convention very long to detect the fact that a skillful but studiously concealed hand was guiding the affairs of the convention, and that the hand belonged to Johnny Noon, the saloon keeper. He was the silent representative of certain interests and had forty-two solid votes to cast where they would do the most good. Tom Bates also saw that these forty-two votes were cast for the nominees who were felt to be deserving of them. With such a perfect organization Noon was in a position to control nearly every nomination that was made, and the indications are that with a single exception he did so control matters.

It was in this way that Mordecai was nominated, but the combination failed to work in the case of Grady, who was the victim of what pugilists are wont to term the "cross." Noon's solid forty-two cast their votes for Mordecai on the understanding that the thirty-three votes of Madera were to be cast for Grady, who was Noon's man for the Sixty-third district nomination. The Madera people, however, failed to deliver the goods, and hence Grady's tears of immitigable sorrow.

The Noon forty-two were to stay with Prince as long as there was a possibility of his getting other votes, but when that was seen to be impossible they were switched off to Warlow. Clark's friends worked hard to defeat Prince, and in so doing brought the would-be county clerk in antagonism with him. The finger was held up and the solid forty-two threw their strength to Elmore, and that was the last of Mr. Clark.

It is "Boss" Noon now.

The second day's session of the Democratic county convention opened in Armory hall at 10.30 a.m. yesterday. The contest for some of the offices was keen and protracted, and in the early part of the day considerable time was cut to waste in nomination speeches and in seconding nominations. It began to look at the noon recess as if the convention would extend to a third day, and as the country delegates were anxious to get home, a disposition was soon manifested to sit on "windy" and gushing orators. The contest for the treasury nomination between Levy and Nelson was so close that it may leave sore places "under the saddle." Nelson got the nomination by one vote only.

The proceedings were opened by Dr. W. T. Maupin reading the resolutions of regret drafted by the special committee in relation to the sudden death of Delegate Sam C. Hutchings. The resolutions were unanimously adopted and copies of them ordered to be sent to the relatives of the deceased.

Chairman McMullin then vacated the chair in order to nominate G. W. Smith for sheriff, stating that he hoped the nomination would be made by acclamation. T. F. Alexander of Temperance colony seconded, and the secretary was authorized to cast the ballot of the convention for Mr. Smith.

STILL WITHOUT A PLATFORM.

There were anxious inquiries for the report of the committee on platform and resolutions, but the members were not yet ready and the district attorneyship nomination was taken up.

J. G. Yager of Belmont named George L. Warlow and T. F. Alexander seconded the nomination.

Carroll Ghent submitted the name of N. C. Coldwell, who was indorsed by George E. Church in a speech filled with disparaging references to Republican nominees.

A. A. Smith of Kingsburg named Dante R. Prince, who was seconded by George Hood and R. B. Harland of White's Bridge.

James Gallagher of Fresno indorsed Warlow in a speech which exceeded the time limit, and was chiefly noteworthy for the opinion expressed that the saloon and anti-saloon issue ought to be kept out of the district attorney's office. He spoke in bitter terms of the action of the present district attorney in this regard.

E. D. Edwards had heard nothing of the saloon question being dragged into this contest, and sat on the previous speaker. He indorsed Coldwell's nomination.

The first ballot showed that the contest would be a hard one. Out of the 202 votes cast Warlow received 75, Coldwell 66 and Prince 61; necessary to a choice 102.

A motion to adjourn was voted down and a second ballot taken. It was soon apparent that Prince could not gain many more votes. The Democracy didn't want a Prince to rule over them, and the "Dante R." had something of an infernal suggestion about it. A second ballot resulted as follows: Prince 56, Coldwell 52, Warlow 93; necessary to a choice 102.

Without delay a third ballot was taken, which resulted in favor of Warlow by the following vote: Coldwell 25, Prince 62, Warlow 122. The sudden falling off in Coldwell's vote was a bitter surprise to the friends of the Texan, and was not rendered any the more agreeable from the fact that five of his votes went to Prince, whose case was already hopeless.

It was now 1.10 p.m. and only two offices had been disposed of. A recess was taken till 2 p.m. and the delegates rushed out for lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On reassembling the long delayed report of the committee on platform and resolutions was produced and read.

The report was very lengthy and the resolutions decidedly long-winded and verbose. The following abstract contains all the essential points:

The platform commits the party to the principles taught by Thomas Jefferson, and as enunciated in the national Democratic platform at Chicago in 1892, and asserts that in the Democratic party, and only in it is to be found the champion able and willing to drive combined capital from its wrongful intrenchments, and restore to the people of the United States those constitutional rights wrested from them by force, fraud and class legislation.

HOG WASH EXTRAORDINARY.

The platform claims that the minority in congress does not scruple to adopt any measure, however revolutionary or ruinous, to retard and obstruct needed reforms; that the problem of wise legislation operating with the least burden on the masses of the people, and the selection of faithful and honest public servants in the state, national and county offices is one that challenges the attention of thoughtful people at this time to a much greater degree than ever before. This is particularly so as it affects more directly the interests of the voters and overburdened taxpayers of Fresno county. It is only through the Democratic party that these necessary reforms can be effected.

The action of the Democratic members of congress in their efforts to repeal the McKinley tariff law is indorsed. It is claimed that the McKinley act has "bred and provided for trusts and combinations in all manufacturing industries, preventing the American farmer from buying where he sells, from exchanging freely products for products, and so has compelled him to be a chained customer of the McKinley pampered and fattened protectees in a market whence all competitors have been excluded."

The Wilson bill is commended, as is also the work of Senator White, particularly in bringing about the proper classification of Zante currants and the relief of the grain-growers of the Pacific coast from an unnecessary tax of more than half a million dollars annually on grain sacks.

BANK MISREPRESENTATION.

The financial depression of the past year is charged to thirty years of vicious and class legislation by the Republican party. The demonetization of silver in 1873, and a high war tariff, gradually diverted the wealth of the country into the hands of a few corporations, and the great mass of the agricultural population are on the verge of bankruptcy. The platform reads: "We denounce the action of the Republican press and the leaders of that party in attributing the evil effects of their own acts to causes that do not exist, and their false and unnecessary clamor being raised for the sole purpose of continuing a policy that has brought upon the country only disaster and ruin."

THE CANAL INDORSED.

It was claimed that the strike in the country and consequent interruption of transportation suggest more than ever how absolutely the country is in the hands of corporations and how necessary it is for the people of this valley to give every encouragement to the construction and maintenance of an outlet by water, owned and controlled by people living in this valley as an independent competing line to tide water, without the outrageous exactions and arbitrary stoppage of trains, leaving the crops to rot when it does not suit the pleasure of the railroad company to run its cars.

After an absolute indorsement of the canal project it is recommended that the government assume the immediate control of the Pacific railroads, of which it is already the substantial owner, and operate them at bare cost in the interest of the people.

The platform is opposed to the ownership of lands in this country by any persons except citizens of the United States, and the public lands to be disposed of to actual settlers only. Not only Chinese, but all other undesirable immigration should be prohibited, to the end that our own people may own and possess the public lands, not disposed of, and that their opportunities for employment may not be curtailed by the influence of foreign laborers.

AN AMBIGUOUS PLANK.

The sense of the convention is declared not to be in favor of gold monometallism or silver monometallism, but that gold and silver should be coined at such ratio as to retain both metals in circulation; that in making the adjustment it should be determined whether gold has risen or silver has fallen, and whether there should be a change of the gold dollar, or the silver dollar, or both.

In the matter of economy in county administration the platform is radical. It maintains that the county is run at too great an expense in these times of business depression and failure of crops. The taxes are out of proportion to the values of property or sums realized. Nominees are pledged in advance that, if elected, they will dispense with all deputies or other help not absolutely necessary to perform the work of the office, with the person elected himself performing a full day's labor.

TWO SUPERIOR COURTS ENOUGH.

With Madera county cut off the convention declares its conviction that the two superior courts can perform all the business of the county, with the saving of salary of judge, clerks, deputies, etc., and that the act establishing the third department should be repealed. The local state senator and assemblymen are pledged to do all in their power to accomplish this result.

The convention denounces the system now practiced by the Republican office holders of the county who have secured office by pledges of economy and continually scramble before the supervisors and the legislature to keep up their exorbitant salaries and fees, and yet levy assessments on their deputies to perpetuate themselves and their party in power, as not only flagrantly false to their pledges, but in open violation of the laws of the land.

DEMOCRATIC SUPERVISORS CONDEMNED.

While good roads are a consideration, nevertheless the enormous exactions for this purpose, averaging $80,000 to $100,000 a year, are unjust and oppressive, and demand such a change in the state law as will insure the proper application of the county funds. The platform is also in favor of special roadmasters, to be elected by the people of the several road districts.

The convention is declared to be unalterably opposed to the present county government act, and denounces it as an outrageous and unjust tax on the taxpayers of the county, and pledges its representatives to a reduction of expenses in the various offices of the county, as follows: Recorder, present salary $3000 and fees, to receive $2000, one deputy at $100 and one at $75 per month; copyists to receive 6 cents per folio. Tax Collector, present salary $2000, deputies' fees and commissions, to receive $2000 only, one deputy at $100 per month and such other deputies as may be necessary during the collection of taxes. Sheriff, present salary $8000, besides deputies and fees, to receive $5000, one deputy at $125 a month, one at $100, one at $75, and two bailiffs at $65 a month each. Treasurer, present salary $2500, besides deputy; deputy to be dropped. Assessor $4000, besides deputy fees and commission; to receive hereafter $2,500, one deputy at $125 a month, one at $100, one at $75, two at $65, two at $60, and not to exceed twelve field deputies at $4.50 per diem, during the assessment, not to exceed seventy-five days in the year. Superintendent of schools, $2,000, deputy and expenses; to be $1,800, and one deputy at $[illegible] per month. District attorney, now $3,600 a year, etc., to receive hereafter $2,500 a year; one deputy at $150 and one at $125 a month. No fees, commissions or expenses to be allowed any of the officials before mentioned. The time of the sessions of the board of supervisors to be limited and their per diem reduced to a sum not to exceed $5. All the legislation thus favored to take effect immediately after its passage.

The report was adopted without debate and unanimously.

J. D. Collins read a resolution recommending that "old Billy Hutchison" be placed on the state ticket for membership on the board of equalization. N. L. F. Bachman spoke by leave of the meeting in support of the resolution, which was adopted without reference to committee. Hutchison acknowledged the compliment and was cheered.

T. Bates of Fresno read a letter from Senator White, in line with the recommendation of the committee on platform in regard to the railroad question.

ELMORE FOR COUNTY CLERK.

Nominations for county clerk were now in order and J. D. Collins nominated A. J. Elmore, "Sanger's favorite." Carroll Ghent nominated J. M. Collier of Fresno, and Jesse Irvine nominated A. M. Clark, the present city recorder. The nominations were then closed.

A close contest had been anticipated and the result was a surprise, especially for the friends of Collier, who was the candidate of the young Democracy of Fresno as against Clark, who has grown old in harness. The young Sangerite started off with a torrent of votes and won on the first ballot, obtaining 123 votes, to 49 recorded for Clark and 20 for Collier. Elmore's nomination was made unanimous and he received quite an ovation.

IRISHMAN LEVY.

When it came to nominations for treasurer E. D. Edwards nominated Herman Levy, with the somewhat surprising announcement that the gentlemen was of Irish descent, and "the best rough-and-tumble, catch-as-catch-can Democratic fighter in the county."

The convention got into considerable confusion in trying to reconcile this problem of a Milesian pugilist with a Semitic name, and when T. T. Burns of Wartham rose to re-nominate Treasurer Nelson he could scarcely be heard and the nomination was made in dumbshow. The list was completed by J. A. Burns of Selma nominating P. D. Jones of Wildflower.

It was the hardest fight of the day. Herman Levy did not belie his reputation as a fighter. He stuck to his veteran antagonist to the last gasp.

A second ballot resulted in a bolt from Jones, who received 23 votes as against 80 for Levy and 99 for Nelson.

A HOLDFAST RENOMINATED.

In the third and final ballot Jones withdrew, but his vote was so equally divided that the result was in doubt till the very last moment, when the result was announced, Levy 100, Nelson 101.

The nomination of Nelson was greeted with a shout that entirely drowned the aged treasurer's voice when he essayed to return thanks. Levy was also called for and accepted the result with the best grace possible under the circumstances.

There were four candidates for the assessorship and another hard fight was predicted, but a single ballot settled it. R. B. Harland of White's Bridge nominated E. D. Vogelsang. W. R. Shannon of Fowler nominated C. C. Elliott, John Stevens nominated L. A. Winchell and A. A. Smith of Kingsburg nominated A. D. Ewing of Fowler.

The vote resulted as follows: Vogelsang 111, Elliott 65, Winchell 20, Ewing 11. The nomination of Vogelsang was made unanimous.

There were candidates galore for the recordership and again the clans gathered for the fray. The following nominations were made: W. Y. Davies of Mendocino by G. W. Terrill of Selma, R. L. Peeler of Fresno by W. S. Badger of Roberts, J. B. Rader of Fresno by W. J. Hutchison, C. L. Wainwright of Fresno by A. A. Smith, and Joe Lawson of Liberty by E. D. Edwards of Fresno.

TIRESOME SPEECHES.

About this time the convention became very noisy, and Sergeant-at-Arms Nick Justy was kept busy. Many of the delegates had grown weary of the nominating speeches, which were provokingly monotonous and pointless. They wanted their supper, and they wanted to get home. After order had been restored a ballot was taken, which showed that it was anybody's fight. The result was: Lawson 40, Peeler 29, Rader 40, Wainwright 61, Davies 22, votes cast 198, necessary to a choice 100.

It was now 6 o'clock, and the perspiring delegates were given an hour for supper. The recordership fight was passed over for a time, and the convention told to meet at 7 p.m. in joint assembly for the nomination of candidates for the senate and assembly.

EVENING SESSION.

The joint convention of Madera and Fresno counties to nominate a senator and assemblymen for the Sixty-second and Sixty-third districts was called to order at 7 p.m. and J. D. Collins was made chairman. The heat was intense, and when the chairman took off his coat many of the delegates followed suit. The delegates from Madera were complimented with front seats in the convention.

A motion that the precincts of Fresno county have their chairman cast the ballot was opposed by E. D. Edwards and withdrawn, and it was decided to vote by secret ballot.

Nominations for senator were in order, and E. D. Edwards nominated T. C. White of Fresno. W. R. Shannon nominated G. W. Mordecai of Madera, "the man who came out of the legislature of a thousand scandals without contamination."

Miles Wallace of Madera had lost none of his loud penetrating voice when he stood up to second the nomination of Mordecai, and whereas there had been numerous complaints about the bad acoustic qualities of the hall, no one could complain of not hearing Miles. He did not make any points worth naming, but he did make the rafters ring with a vengeance.

George E. Church essayed to stem the tide which was setting toward Mordecai and against White by a speech in the latter's favor, but the delegates had had a little too much Church to suit them, and when he ceased there were loud calls for Mordecai.

Mordecai stepped to the platform and made a stereotyped "hurrah" speech. He defended his advocacy of the bill creating Madera county.

T. C. White made a short speech, in which he pledged himself to reduce the county expenses 25 to 50 per cent, a statement which was received with laughter.

It was evident that the convention had not the slightest doubt about Mordecai getting the nomination, and so no surprise was exhibited when the result of the first ballot was announced—Mordecai 138, White 69.

The Fresno band was on hand, of course without prearrangement, and struck up "Johnny, Get Your Gun" the moment the vote was declared. The meeting went wild for five minutes, and then George E. Church accepted defeat for White as gracefully as he could, and Mordecai expressed his acknowledgments.

The two assembly districts now divided into separate conventions and speakers were requested to cut it short. The effect of two speakers shouting at the top of their voice in a different key was striking, but scarcely harmonious. "Cut it short," was the cry every other minute, and the meeting fell into "most admired disorder."

After the "hamburger steak" addresses had been finished nominations were closed and ballots taken.

The nominees in the Sixty-second district were C. U. Henderson of Kingston, G. H. Rodgers of Scandinavian, and I. N. Hyde of Madison. In the Sixty-third the honors were disputed by W. D. Grady of Fresno, N. L. F. Bachman of Easterby and James Fairweather, the erstwhile "Hinglishman" of Reedley.

In the sixty-second district the first ballot resulted in favor of C. U. Henderson, who obtained 104 votes as against 16 votes for Hyde and 8 for Rogers. It was a clean sweep, and the nomination of Henderson was made unanimous.

In the sixty-third district the first ballot resulted in no choice. The figures were: W. D. Grady 62, N. L. F. Bachman 42, J. Fairweather 24; votes cast 128; necessary to a choice 65.

A second ballot was taken with the following result: Votes cast, 127; necessary to a choice, 64. Grady 58, Bachman 57, Fairweather 12. The Reedley man immediately thanked those supporters who had stayed with him, and withdrew from the fight. It was now "nip and tuck" between Bachman and Grady, and the friends of the two statesmen feverishly cried for fresh ballot papers, as a wounded man cries for water.

BACH FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

In the next and last ballot (it might almost be called the last round) Grady was knocked out. He lost one vote while Bachman gained Fairweather's twelve. The figures announced were: Ballots cast 126, necessary to a choice 64; Grady 57, Bachman 69. The band struck up when the decision was announced, and "Bach" was overwhelmed with congratulations. It was a hard trial for Grady, who had what looked to be a sure thing at the start. The cup had slipped on its way to the lip, and poor Grady was once more destined to prove his undying and unswerving allegiance to the Democratic party in spite of cruel rebuffs and reverses.

Bachman returned thanks in a brief but witty and forcible speech. It was getting late, and auditing committees of five were appointed in each of the assembly districts. Those for the sixty-second district were W. N. Curtis, M. D. Huffman, E. D. Edwards of Fresno and Miles Wallace and B. A. Hawkins of Madera.

The senatorial convention now adjourned and the recordership fight was resumed.

There was such a noise when Thomas Bates rose to speak that he gave up all efforts to make himself heard. At last he blurted out: "If you will excuse me, I'll take a drink." This struck a sympathetic chord and a dead silence instantly prevailed.

Those who waited to hear Cleveland's name mentioned waited in vain. There is such a thing as eloquent silence.

M. V. Ashbrook, chairman of the Republican county convention, was present at the night session. "I think our people were a wee bit more orderly," he said with a significant smile.

The second ballot resulted in no choice. Lawson and Davies were evidently "not in it," and Rader picked up considerably. The result was announced as follows: Wainwright 56, Rader 70, Peeler 37, Lawson 20, Davies 19; necessary to a choice, 95.

A motion to adjourn was voted down and another ballot taken. Davies withdrew. As the ballot progressed neither Peeler nor Lawson made any headway, but Wainwright developed strength, and when the twelfth tally was scored for Rader, Wainwright was only two votes behind. Rader began to draw ahead, but wanted seven votes to win, and no choice was declared. The vote was: Rader 90, Wainwright 94, Peeler 21, Lawson 9. Peeler and Lawson withdrew. A motion to adjourn was loudly voted down and another ballot ordered.

The scene at this time was very picturesque. The precinct standards which had stood proudly erect in the morning were in many cases lying prostrate on the floor, and in a few instances the cards had been torn off and cut up to keep tally. The floor was strewn with ballot papers. Delegates smoking corn-cob pipes leaned back in their chairs and discussed the situation. Others sank back in utter exhaustion. About a dozen ladies gazed on curiously from the gallery and wondered what the men could find to make such a fuss about. Most of the candidates were on the verge of collapse from incessant efforts to keep wavering supporters in line. The speakers had shouted themselves hoarse, and feebly inquired for chlorate of potash and chewing tobacco. Even the reporters, who had fourteen hours of concentrated attention, and had covered scores of pages with what was supposed to be handwriting, began to look haggard and weary.

The result came at last. Rader and Wainwright were "level pegging" time and time again as the scoring progressed, but Rader drew ahead. At last a shout that echoed all over the hall announced that Rader had secured the requisite majority. The figures were: Rader 110, Wainwright 74. Wainwright asked that Rader's nomination be made unanimous, which was done, and after a due acknowledgement by Rader an adjournment was taken till 9 a.m. today.

It was twenty minutes after midnight when the convention adjourned. The nominees for the senate and assembly were serenaded at the Grand Central hotel by the Park band and made brief addresses suitable to the occasion.

There remain to be nominated the tax collector, auditor, superintendent of schools, public administrator, county surveyor, coroner, delegates to the state convention, two supervisors and officers in the judicial townships. The convention will probably adjourn at noon today.

UNCONVENTIONAL NOTES.

If noise is a criterion, the enthusiasm of the Democracy at the convention yesterday was beyond question. Many of the speakers who could not make themselves heard thought there might be too much of a good thing.

A black cat wandered on to the floor of the convention at the morning session and was accommodated with a seat on the secretary's table as the convention's mascot.

G. W. Smith was introduced as the next sheriff. He is no Jay, but there is a big Scott standing in his way, a man of judgment and execution.

Three women were brave enough to invade the convention at the afternoon session. They were equal suffragists and stayed just long enough to find out that the platform had no plank for them.

N. C. Coldwell, erstwhile of Texas, who got so badly left for the district attorney nomination, may perhaps console himself with the plaintive lament of the Lone Star pioneer:

"When every other land rejects us,
This is the only state that Texas."

George E. Church is a good talker, but men have been talked to death before.

Fahey was on hand, but where was Goucher?

Wickersham dropped in, just to see how the other boys "fixed things."

James Gallagher was shrewd enough to see a rock ahead in the saloon question, but not cautious enough to hold his tongue about it before the crew.

"Whoa! Whoa! Whoa!" exclaimed an excitable Wildflower delegate, after the five-minute limit had been violated for the third time within an hour.

Supervisors Sayre and Butler spent a lot of time yesterday on the floor of the convention. They will charge the usual per diem to the county, presumably.

If District Attorney Church had been present to hear one-half of the unflattering allusions to him yesterday he would have wondered if he possessed even a single redeeming quality as a lawyer. But then Mr. Church was a Democrat once, and "there's the rub."

Delegate Tom Bates took his coat off before addressing the convention. Delegate Curd went him one better by removing his vest also. Neither of the gentlemen divested himself of his pants.

P. D. Jones of Wildflower was enthusiastically described by his nominator as "no tenderfoot." All the same, he is sore all over now. He didn't get nominated, but he did get left.

White looked pretty black when Mordecai got the nomination so easily.

Ex-Mayor Cole was on hand. He says it is not a triangle, but a quadrangle now.

The latest Democratic definition of the district attorney's office is a kindergarten for young lawyers.

T. C. White was spoken of as a man who had once been a fiddler, but it was insisted that Thomas Jefferson was a violinist in his way. By the way, White played second fiddle to Mordecai last night.

Having concluded to leave Fresno, all persons indebted to me must call and settle their bills at once. J. R. REILY.*

THE LOCAL SITUATION.

NO NEW MOVE BY STRIKERS OR RAILROAD.

A Reward Offered for the Sacramento Train Wreckers—The Local Trains.

There was no change in the local situation yesterday. No freight went out, but the local between here and Lathrop and the Porterville train made their usual runs. The passengers on the 12.45 p.m. train were few.

It had been reported the day before that the strikers would meet yesterday, but no meeting was held. A visit to the division headquarters was also unproductive of news. Both sides here appear to be waiting for something to turn up elsewhere—in Sacramento for instance.

It was rumored yesterday that Pullman had decided to abandon his shops in Illinois and move them to New Jersey. That is, he would go out of business and begin over again. This determination, the sympathizers with the railroad think, leaves the strikers without an excuse for continuing their course.

The bulletin-board of THE REPUBLICAN was eagerly watched by many people yesterday. The news from Sacramento caused an undercurrent of excitement, and the comments of the people varied, according to the attitude they had adopted in the struggle between the railroad and its employes. The local guards are still on the alert, in case news should be received demanding their presence at a critical point.

The following notice was received here yesterday, shortly after the news of the wrecking of the train near Sacramento arrived:

TO ALL CONCERNED:—The Southern Pacific Company hereby offers to pay $5000 as a reward for information or evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of one or more of the criminals who caused the derailment of westbound mail and passenger train No. 4 at a point three miles west of Sacramento, about noon this date, July 11, 1894, in which wreck three or more persons were killed. A. N. TOWNE,
Second Vice President and
Gen. Manager, S.P. Co,
San Francisco, July 11, 1894.

Last night's local brought in a small number of passengers, and besides had a freight car attached containing beer, ice and an assortment of groceries. A large amount of mail was brought in, but most of it will go on south. If the southern mail keeps accumulating the postal authorities will soon will be compelled to rent a store house.

The following from yesterday's Merced Sun shows the condition of the militia at that place:

"On this afternoon's northbound train Captain Miller of General Muller's staff arrived in Merced with a large quantity of ammunition for company H. He immediately inspected the guns of the company, and found them with a very few exceptions all right. It is also reported that the company is provided with five days' rations. The officers are very mum, and no definite information as to the next movement can be obtained. It is generally thought, however, that company H will be called out."

Women in Journalism.

Twice in my life, I must testify, my personal remarks were reported with such accuracy and care that I was more than satisfied. Last year a young woman called upon me with a note from a well known editor to get some observations from me on the World's fair. I shall merely say that the result in this case proved conclusively to me that woman in journalism is fully as capable as man, if not more so, and as interviewers they are surely better equipped by nature, with their insinuating tact and mental alertness. There is no reason either why the bloom of feminine refinement should be lost in such a career. That depends upon the individual herself.—W. D. Howells.

A Wife Is a Luxury.

The English law courts have formally decided that a wife is not a necessity of life, but a luxury. There have been a good many breach of promise suits before the courts lately, and in two prominent ones the defense was set up that the contract was invalid because the contracting parties were minors when it was made, and that no contract made by a minor is binding at law, except it be for a "necessity." In one case the defense failed because the contract was renewed after the youth attained his majority, but in the other case the young fellow got off, the court deciding that a wife could not be considered a necessity.—Nashville American.

She Carried Her Motion.

Miss Meta L. Cowles of Greene, N. Y., appeared as the attorney in a case at the court in Delhi, N. Y. It was the first time a lady lawyer ever argued a case in that city. She succeeded in carrying her motion. The progress in this part of the country is very remarkable and encouraging. Many are willing women should vote on the license question in the towns, but not yet for rulers. But quietly the work goes on, and the complete triumph cannot be far away.—Franklin (N. Y.) Correspondent.

A Chance For Chicago Women to Vote.

Chicago women may do a little voting this fall if they are so inclined. In Cook county the only officers for whom they can vote are the trustees of the state university. They have no right to vote even for school superintendents. Probably comparatively few women will care to enjoy such a mere suggestion of suffrage, although Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, a prominent woman lawyer, says that she thinks 200,000 women will go to the polls and cast ballots.

Afraid of the Women.

Captain Joe Waters says in a letter declining to engage in a debate with the Populist Women's club of Topeka: "No power on earth is strong enough to compel me to dispute with a woman. If any of them desire to fight me, I at once display a flag of truce and unconditionally surrender. As a lawyer I carry this further. Under no stress, no compulsion, no apparently magnificent opportunity for me to air my art, will I ever cross-examine a woman who is a witness against me, and in this I think I have a wisdom beyond Mr. Butterworth."—Chicago Herald.

Rosebery's Ambitions.

Lord Rosebery, who is now 47 years old, is credited with having said one day that he had three ambitions—to be the richest man in England, to be prime minister and to win the Derby. It is understood that he achieved the first ambition by his marriage to the daughter of Baron Meyer de Rothschild, who died in 1890, leaving him master of a handsome estate. The second ambition he has satisfied lately, since the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, and the third with his recent good fortune on the turf.—New York Telegram.

The Income Tax.

There are a large number of men in this country who would cheerfully submit to the payment of an income tax if they could only have the income.—Exchange.

BAVARIA'S MAD KING.

The Poor Fellow Has Been Crazy More Than Half His Life.

Should the Bavarian deputies indorse the action just taken by the upper house in deciding to place the insane King Otto under guardianship and transfer the crown to the madman's uncle, Prince Luitpold, regent and heir presumptive, this royal maniac will lose entirely the fictitious bauble of kingly authority which he has never been permitted to exercise. The story of the mad monarch's life reads like some strange tale of the middle ages.

Otto is now 46 years old and has been insane more than half of his life. He nominally succeeded to the throne June 13, 1886, when his brother, King Ludwig II—who had been deposed three days before because his insanity had become unendurable—committed suicide by drowning himself in the lake of Starnberg, in the park of Berg castle, to which he had been removed for safe keeping. Ludwig had been crazy for years upon music and palaces. King Otto never actually reigned. Prince Luitpold, his uncle, was appointed regent when King Ludwig was dethroned and has been the real ruler ever since then.

Otto has long been confined in the castle of Fuerstenried, in the midst of a dense forest, not far from Munich. The most disagreeable task a Bavarian soldier has to perform is to do garrison duty there, the gloom of the surroundings being intensified by the dreadful appearance of the mad monarch. His hair is long and unkempt, and his bushy brown beard reaches below his waist. His eyes are usually fixed on empty space. He is always dressed in black broadcloth. At one time he fancied that his carpets were made of the finest glass, and that it was dangerous to tread on them. He would not be content until they were all taken up. Another hallucination was that the walls of his apartments were hung with newspapers. He would sit for hours facing a wall, reading aloud what he imagined he found in those newspapers. He smoked something like a hundred cigarettes a day at last accounts, using up a box of matches to light each one, taking childish enjoyment in the flash and crackle of the little bits of wood. Once it occurred to him that it would be amusing to shoot peasants, and he sat at a window all day long with a gun, watching like a hunter for his game. His attendants would load the gun with peas instead of buckshot, and a man in peasant's dress would pass within range occasionally. The king would shoot, the man would drop, and the apparently lifeless body would be removed by guards.

CONGRESSMAN CONN, PUBLISHER.

An Interesting Sketch of the Man Who Has Bought a Washington Daily.

Representative Conn of Elkhart, Ind., has purchased the Washington Times, a paper that was started here a few months ago by members of the Typographical union, but has made very little headway. After being assessed $5 or $10 every week for several months to make up deficiencies the stockholders got weary of their enterprise, and at their last meeting decided to sell out, whereupon Mr. Conn, who is a millionaire and already owns several newspapers in northern Indiana, agreed to take the burden off their hands, pay an appraised price for the plant and settle all the debts of the concern.

Mr. Conn is a notable and eccentric character, and his history is a romance. A few years ago he had a bench in the corner of a jewelry store in Elkhart, where he mended watches, clocks and musical instruments. One day while repairing a tuba an idea occurred to him that was worth several million dollars and resulted in the invention of a rubber mouthpiece for musical wind instruments, which was patented and immediately adopted all over the world. This lucky little hit made Mr. Conn's fortune. At Elkhart he established one of the largest factories in the world for the manufacture of brass and silver musical instruments, which is run on the co-operative plan, and the profits are divided between himself and his employees. He has been mayor of the town several times and can come to congress from that district as long as he likes. He believes in organized labor and stands half way between the Democratic and Populist parties. He is against the administration, particularly its silver policy, and his object in buying the paper is to establish here an organ to express the sentiments of those who believe in silver money. It is said, too, that he intends to make a very lively paper, something in the sensational line, which will be a new thing in Washington.—Washington Letter.

A Woman Printer.

Boston has a woman who owns and conducts a printing establishment which sends work all over the country. This is Miss Anna Florence Grant, a young woman about 25 years old, who came from Portland, Me., and who, by her enterprise, has built up a large job printing establishment. She is now at work compiling a Boston woman's directory.

A Hint to Heiresses.

The French courts have recently decided that a woman's dot, or marriage portion, is the property of her husband. American heiresses about to marry a French title will do well to make a note of this. It is said that a strong agitation is to be begun in France in favor of a married woman's property act.

A Suicide.

Carl Fr. Jacobsen, a laborer on C. G. Sayle's ranch, a few miles east of town, was found dead yesterday afternoon near the Fresno vineyard, on the Porterville road. A pistol lying near him and a wound in the head plainly indicated a case of suicide. An inquest was held last night, the jury's verdict being that Jacobsen had come to his death from a gunshot wound. He was a Dane, aged about 35 years and single. He is believed to have been insane.

A Revolution In Eating
has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstain entirely from everything of that kind. To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food—imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion.
COTTOLENE is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF A DECREE of foreclosure and order of sale issued out of the above entitled Court on the 2d day of July, 1894, in above entitled action, in which said action above named plaintiff obtained a judgment and decree of foreclosure and order of sale against the defendant Thomas E. Hughes for fifteen thousand seven hundred nineteen and 75 100 dollars ($15,719.75), besides interest and accruing costs, which said decree was on the 25th day of June, 1894, duly entered and recorded in the records of said Court, I am commanded to sell all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in the county of Fresno, State of California, and particularly described as follows, to-wit:

First—Commencing at a point in block 73 in the town of Fresno (now the city of Fresno), as per official plat on file in the office of the County Recorder of said county, on southwesterly line of alley dividing said block at present intersection and ten feet southeasterly from former intersection of said line of said alley with southeasterly line of Tulare street; thence running along said line of said alley southeasterly eighty feet; thence at right angles southwesterly forty feet, thence at right angles northwesterly eighty feet; thence at right angles forty feet to place of commencement, being portions of lots 29, 30, 31 and 32 of said block.

Second—Lots 1, 2 and 3, in block 82, of the town of Fresno (now the city of Fresno), according to the official map on file in said Recorder's office.

Public notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, the 25th day of July, 1894, at 12 o'clock m., of that day, in front of the court house door in the city of Fresno, said county of Fresno, I will, in obedience to said decree of foreclosure and order of sale, sell above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment as above stated, with interest and accruing costs, at public auction, to the highest and best bidder, for gold coin of the United States.

O. SCRIBNER,
Commissioner Appointed by the Court in Said Action.
Dated this July 3d, 1894.
J. F. COWDERY, Esq., Attorney for Plaintiff.
